ST MARY’S CHURCH

St Mary’s Church is one of Derbyshire’s finest, standing in the centre of Wirksworth in a quiet churchyard. The present imposing building dates from C13th. Its size reflects Wirksworth’s important history. Built into the inside walls are earlier stone fragments, notably a carved Saxon coffin lid, and the famous ‘towd man’ early medieval carving of a Derbyshire lead miner. St Mary’s is open every day.

ECCLESBOURNE VALLEY RAILWAY

The Ecclesbourne Valley is one of Derbyshire’s most lovely and unspoilt valleys, stretching from Wirksworth to the northern outskirts of Derby at Duffield. The railway operates passenger services between Wirksworth and Duffield mainly using heritage diesel railcars, and on selected days steam hauled services on the short branch between Wirksworth and Ravenstor. Special events run throughout the year, including a Classic Transport weekend, Classic Bus Rally and an annual model railway exhibition.

STONEY WOOD

Stoney Wood is Wirksworth’s Millennium woodland, planted in the area recovered from Stonecroft Quarry on land donated by Tarmac Ltd. Planting by local people has been inspired by the Foret Giono woodland near Wirksworth’s twin town of Die in France. An ideal spot for walking and picnics, and a regular location for large community events.

THE STARDISC

The StarDisc is a spectacular 21st century stone circle created by renowned visual artist Aidan Shingler. From its setting high above the town, it commands stunning views over Wirksworth and the Ecclesbourne Valley. A star chart, carved into black granite and inscribed with the constellations, is surrounded by 12 silver granite seats representing the months of the year. After dark, the star chart, which spans 12m, is illuminated by low level lighting, powered by our own star the Sun.

GREENHILL AND THE DALE

From the town’s central market place, the cottages and narrow alleys of Greenhill and the Dale wind up the hillside like those of a traditional coastal fishing village.

Wirksworth is within easy reach of Matlock (4 miles), Bakewell (12 miles) and Ashbourne (10 miles). Derby is its closest city, just 12 miles away. The town is nestled at the head of the Ecclesbourne Valley surrounded by beautiful open countryside with delightful walks and stunning views.

A SHORT HISTORY

Quirky. Different. Special. Words often used to describe this fascinating Derbyshire town on the southern edge of the Peak District, where the geology and landscape have shaped its character and its people for generations.

Lead was being mined here in Roman times, and by the 12th century it was one of the most important centres for the ore in England. Many of the town’s impressive houses were built during the prosperous times the industry brought, and a stone carving in Wirksworth’s imposing 13th century church depicts ‘t’owd man’, a miner with his pick and “kibble” or basket, who has become Wirksworth’s unofficial symbol. By the 19th century the lead was all but exhausted and limestone quarrying provided new work for the town’s inhabitants. The railway came too, and so did the dust - dry throats led to the creation of over 60 pubs in the town, most now gone but still remembered as Wirksworth’s famous ‘lost pubs’.

AN INDUSTRIOUS PEOPLE

Arkwright built Haarlem Mill, the first cotton mill in the world to use a steam engine, and Wirksworth became the biggest producer of red tape for Whitehall, its weekly output equalling the circumference of the earth. George Elliot, in her novel Adam Bede, based her fictional town Snowfield on Wirksworth, and the character Dinah Morris on her aunt who lived in the town.

D.H. Lawrence lived with his wife Frieda on the outskirts of Wirksworth, and whilst staying here in the bitter winter of 1918–19 wrote the short story ‘A Wintry Peacock’.

A TOWN TRANSFORMED

Over the centuries, quarrying changed the landscape of the town dramatically, and mechanisation brought dust, dirt, and noise. People moved away and took their trade with them, leaving buildings empty and falling down. But the 1970s Wirksworth Project - a remarkable and European award winning regeneration programme - changed all that, transforming the crumbling buildings and recreating a thriving community once again. Today, the railway is still running, ancient customs of well dressings and ‘clypping the church’ are alive and well, and the quarries have a new lease of life as natural woodland spaces. Wirksworth is now known for its independent shops and cafes, annual arts festival, bustling music scene and for the dozens of artists and creative people who live and work in the town.

WELCOME

Whether you are here for a few hours or perhaps a little longer, we welcome you to enjoy Wirksworth. But beware - you may not want to leave!
